

BUY YOUR DREAM AIRPLANE AND LEAVE TRADITIONAL HEADACHES BEHIND by Steve Wightman, FAA Certified Airplane Repairman

Buying an airplane is a lot like a first-time wedding; you really don't know what you are getting into. With all the arrangements, negotiations, criticisms, logistics, priorities, politics, and serial changes, it's enough to drive you crazy! Bottomline? Get help! Instead of starting from ground zero for your airplane purchase, why not hire a team of seasoned experts to represent your best interests?

Savvy Aviation in Wyoming, <https://www.savvyaviation.com/buyers-assistance/> is just such a firm. They have a terrific ten-step process to take the heat off you. It makes buying your airplane transparent. Like good mechanics, they are there to answer any maintenance question. Furthermore, once you own your wings, Savvy Aviation can save you lots of time and money through any of their four forward-looking maintenance plans for general aviation aircraft.

Like a check-up with your healthcare team, they look for early signs of trouble such as loss of compression, a rise in sensor temperature, or a drop in RPM - and many more. Preventive maintenance like this can save you costly repairs like an engine failure - not to mention the inherent safety risk. Believe them when they say their services can save you more than the annual cost of membership. It can also save some nail-biting and sleepless nights. Check them out. Let this veteran team whittle away your worries. Fly savvy and safe.
